Amazing Collection of Exotics
Several Large Ponds
High fenced
Endless Possibilities
This 930± acre high fenced ranch for sale just north of Eden, Texas, is heavily stocked with a spectacular array of species from the African plains, Asia, India, and Europe, as well as North American species of trophy big game. The spectacular range of exotics on Blevins Ranch in Concho County, Texas, sets the bar high for hunting ranches.

Near the center of Concho County, Blevins Ranch is just six minutes north of Eden and just over 30 minutes from the college town of San Angelo with its municipal airport and daily commercial flights. Drive times to San Antonio and Austin are under three hours and the DFW Metroplex is just over three hours. The ranch has almost half a mile of frontage on US Highway 83.

This land has diverse topography with great views. Diverse and nutritious high protein brush is available to the wildlife in generous amounts across the ranch, along with heavily wooded areas of mesquite, cedar, and live oaks providing excellent cover. Blevins Ranch has several large ponds across the ranch to provide year-round water for the animals. The ranch has miles of interior roads that are well maintained and provide easy access to most of the ranch.

African species in the collection include blesbok, gemsbok, Scimitar horned oryx, Cape buffalo, wildebeest, zebra, addax, lechwe, warthog, aoudad, and eland. Asian species include barasingha, nilgai, Blackbuck antelope, and Axis, Père David’s, and Sika deer. European deer species include Red and Fallow. North American exotics include elk and bison, plus native Whitetail deer, Rio Grande turkey, and hogs. Sheep and goat species on the ranch are red, mouflon, transcaspiian, and Texas dahl sheep, with ibex, markhor, aoudad, tahr, and cordova goats. Adventure awaits at Blevins Ranch.
